GLEANINGS FROM THE GLADES

Threshed Out In Belle Glade

BY PHIL CLARKE

THE AMERICAN LEGION POST—

Belle Glade deserves a good deal of credit for their unselfish public spirit. About ten years ago, at considerable personal expense, members of the local post erected the spacious Legion hall. Since that time the hall has been used as a church, benefit amusement center, basketball court, indoor fair, banquet hall, Boy Scout headquarters, and—incidentally — the occasional meeting place of Post 20, American Legion. Now, the huge hall echoes with the assorted noises of children for in it is contained a community nursery designed to benefit dozens of underprivileged youngsters of our community.

But, we now learn that the Legion has voted to repair the building, re-roofing and strengthening foundation pilings. It is not known when the Legion will get back their hall, nor do they seem much to care. They have the satisfaction of doing a job and doing it well. They are to be congratulated.

MOON OVER THE GLADES—

brings to life certain memories of white moonlight on white snow in native Minnesota. When the mist falls low over the hollow plains, the bright light of the moon spreads into layers of mist, looking for all the world like fresh snow.

Such natural beauty as we possess here should not be overlooked. I know a certain nature-loving person who delights in surrounding himself with dozens — even hundreds — of tropical plants and vegetation. Pineapples, avocados, bananas, guavas, palm trees in many varieties, gardenia bushes, roses, lilies, gladioli, and hundreds of tongue-twisting tropical specimens abound at his finger-tips.

And this person has learned to love his plants, trees and flowers as if they were personal friends. The truth be it—they are!

Which reminds me of the remark of a North Florida friend, who, in describing the Everglades in advance of my encampment here, told of the miles and miles of pine trees planted in straight rows along many canals.

"They are planted there to cut off the monotonous landscape and to hide from view vast stretches of barren wastes," she said.

Guffaw!

Hooker-Jones Co. Gets Good Yields From Sugar Cane

An average yield of 45.38 tons of sugar cane per acre is the high record of the Hooker-Jones sugar cane development for the first season of its operations.

From a net acreage of 344 acres, the company harvested a total of 15,610 tons of sugar cane. Operations began in December and closed on April 22, it was stated.

The sucrose yield, as determined by the United States Sugar Corporation which marketed the cane, was from 14 to 15 per cent.

The unusually high yield per acre was due mainly to the several new types of cane harvested, it was said. The area had never before been planted to sugar cane, but had been grown to winter vegetables.

Located one mile south of Bean City, adjoining the Florida East Coast Railway tracks, the area and the crews employed were managed by Luther Jones. A spur line, connected to the main tracks by the railroad company, extended into the cane field and enabled the company to load, by a drag-line, several cars at once.

The company intends to harvest another crop of sugar cane during the next season.

County Reworks Chosen Highway

The county road department began Monday to rebuild the south Hillsborough canal road from the Chosen bridge to the Main Street bridge. The road had been completely scarified from the Chosen bridge to the railroad underpass on Wednesday and work was proceeding eastward.

Scrapers are ripping off the top surface of the road after which graders will level it off in preparation for the limerock re-surfacing. Four carloads of limerock have arrived in Bele Glade to be used in the contsruction work.

Three Fertility Programs For Commercial Celery Growing

Data Secured At Experiment Station Released To Growers

Three suggested fertility programs for the commercial growing of celery on the sawgrass peat lands of the Florida Everglades were presented in booklet form published by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Gainesville and written from data secured by Dr. J. R. Beckenbach and other members of the staff of the Everglades Experiment Station.

The booklet, released last week, lists the following three programs:

1. For virgin sawgrass peat soil: Do not plant virgin soils to celery the first year the land is broken. work the land into some semblance of shape, planting a crop of low fertilizer requirement the first year. This will give the turned under sawgrass a chance to decompose thoroughly.

The second year apply broadcast 4,000 pounds to the acre of a 3-6-6 or a 3-6-12 fertilizer (or its equivalent in a higher analysis fertilizer of the same relative composition), to which has been added 100 pounds of manganese sulfate, 100 pounds of copper sulfate, and 25 pounds of zinc sulfate. The nitrogen should be applied as one-half sodium nitrate and one-half ammonium sulfate if the soil is normal and unburned, or entirely as ammonium sulfate if the soil is neutral or slightly burned. The phosphate should be applied as the triple super-phosphate or as basic slag. The use of the latter material will result in a lower analysis fertilizer which will consequently have to be applied at a higher rate per acre. If basic slag is used, ammonium sulfate should not be used as the nitrogen source. The potash should be applied as the muriate, although either the sulfate or hardwood ashes are quite suitable if they are on hand.

This fertilizer application should be made not less than three days prior to the setting of the plants, and should be disked and floated to mix the soil and fertilizer, and to level the field for planting.

2. For sawgrass peat soils which have been previously fertilized and planted to truck crops other than celery. Apply broadcast 3,000 pounds of 3-6-12 (or its equivalent) fertilizer composed of the same materials mentioned above and in a manner similar to that suggested above. If copper sprays or dusts have been used on the previous crops, or if copper had been added to fertilizers previously used on the land, no copper need be applied. Otherwise, add 100 pounds of copper sulfate with the fertilizer. If manganese has been previously added to the soil, apply only 25 pounds per acre of manganese sulfate. If no manganese has been used previously, 100 pounds per acre should be added. If zinc has been used previously, 10 to 15 pounds of zinc sulfate should be sufficient. If none has been used before, 25 pounds per acre, applied with the fertilizer, is suggested.

3. For sawgrass peat soils previously fertilized for and planted to celery. If either of the programs suggested, or their approximate equivalent, had been followed the previous year, and if the celery strippings had been returned to the soil and no market crop grown since the previous celery crop, it is suggested that 2,000 pounds of 3-6-12 (or its equivalent) fertilizer per acre be applied broadcast, plus 25 pounds of manganese sulfate and 10 to 15 pounds of zinc sulfate per acre. If the strippings of the previous crop had been removed, or if the previous year's celery crop has been followed by another market crop, 3,000 to 4,000 pounds of the same formula fertilizer will probably be required for a good crop of celery.

In addition to the fertility program outlined above, a table of average costs and returns for an acre of celery during the season of 1937-38 were experimentally figured. The experiments included 4 operators, 408 planted acres, 364 acres harvested with an average yield of harvested acreage (crates), at 448.

The cost of growing celery plants, including rent on land, preparing seedbed, fertilizer, seed, applying fertilizer and seeding, spraying, including materials, irrigation expense, labor (weeding and covering beds), depreciation on seedbed frames and covers and miscellaneous items, totalled $22.69 per acre.

The cost of growing and harvesting, including rent on land, growing cover crop, preparing land for celery, fertilizer, applying fertilizer, transplanting from seedbed to field, water control, cultivating and weeding, spraying including materials, blanching, cutting celery and field stripping and hauling to packinghouse, made a total expense of $171.63 per acre.

The cost of marketing, including grading, pre-cooling, crates and selling, totalled $211.90.

From these growing and marketing costs, the total cost excluding production interest and operator's supervision was figured at $406.22 per acre. The returns from celery marketed totalled $487.76 leaving a net return to the operator of $81.54 per acre.

STATE OFFICIAL INSPECTS SCHOOL

The annual State inspection of the Belle Glade grade and junior high school was made Wednesday, by M. A. Stone, assistant director of the Division of Instruction of the State Department.

The inspection includes all class rooms, curriculum, library and other phases of education at the local school. Mr. Stone expressed complete satisfaction following his inspection and it is believed that the Belle Glade school will enjoy the same superior rating as before.

Mr. Stone expressed great satisfaction over the progress made by the library unit of the school and was especially interested in the visual education program as carried out by a movie propector and educational films. The vocational education program, begun in the school recently by Principal L. W. Bartlett, also received a share of praise. It was called a forward step in practical education for everyday use in later years.

Mr. Stono also complimented Mr. Bartlett and his staff on the completely equipped reading room, remarking that over 90 per cent of all pupils questioned in the various rooms asserted that they were reading some book contained in the reading room.

Druggist Escapes Waters Of Canal As Car Overturns

Another near-tragedy of the Everglades canals was enacted near Twenty-Mile Bend Wednesday afternoon when John Whitsett, Belle Glade druggist, narrowly escaped drowning when he was thrown from his car into the West Palm Beach canal.

Cause of the accident was attributed to a rear tire blow-out. The tire failure occured when the Whitsett car was passing another car and threw the machine against a pine tree on the canal bank. The car toppled over on its side, throwing him into the canal, and at the same time the left door flew open propping the car against the canal bank and preventing it from falling into the water.

Whitsett managed to make his way to the canal bank with the aid of a passing motorist who had stopped at the scene. He suffered no more than a few bruises.

Leonard To Speak Before Graduates

The date for the graduation exercises of the Belle Glade junior high school was changed this week from the original date of May 19 to Wednesday afternoon, May 31, at 2:30 o'clock.

John I. Leonard, county superintendent of schools, will present the diplomas to the graduating students in the school auditorium. No guest speaker has been chosen as yet.

Mr. Leonard will present diplomas to students of the South Bay school at 2 o'clock, of the same afternoon, and to the graduating students of the Canal Point junior high school at 3:15 p. m.

Reason for the change in the date of the graduation exercises was given as the possibility the county schools will continue to operate for the full nine month term. No action was taken by the county school board at a meeting Wednesday because of the absence of Carmen Salvatore, Pahokee board member, who is in New Jersey, where he was called recently by death in the family. The board expects to re-convene next Wednesday and decide on Superintendent Leonard's plan for a full school term.

Pot Luck Supper Wednesday Night

Certain phases of Church work and concrete methods of contributing to the welfare of the Church will be discussed by members of the Men's Brotherhood of the Community Methodist Church at a pot-luck supper Wednesday night, May 10, at the Community Church.

A general cordial invitation to all men friends of the Community Church was extended this week by H. H. Hart, chairman of the entertainment committee.

All members of the group will be notified of the event this week, it was understood.

MacKay Tells Rote Club Of Intricate Workings Of Radio

WQAM Director Speaks Before Belle Glade Meeting

"What a Free Radio Means to America," was the subject of a talk delivered by Norman MacKay, director of Radio Station WQAM, treasurer of the Advertising Federation of Florida and past president of the Advertising Club of Greater Miami, at the regular Friday luncheon of the Rotary Club of Belle Glade.

Mr MacKay, who has been connected with the radio profession since 1929, told Rotarians and their guests the significance radio has in democracy today. Defining democracy as the expressed will of the people, he went on to say that should government get a strangle-hold on radio, the life breath of our American democracy will be choked off.

"Because of the solid economic foundation of American radio, we are free to bring you the voice of a president and the voice of his opponent—over the same facilities. We are free to present the voice of a rabbi, priest or minister. We are free to give voice to the many voices that make up our American democracy. This is the profound social importance of commercial radio in this country," said Mr. MacKay.

Emphasizing the great importance of advertising in maintaining a free radio system, Mr. MacKay said, "If American radio did not have such support it could not pay for the services if now renders the American people. We would be confronted with just two alternatives: 1. There would be no radio program service in this country for there would be no economic base to support it, or, 2. the government would take over broadcasting, supply and pay for programs through taxation of sets or through assessments."

In explaining the American system of broadcasting, he added: "American radio has offered such an amazing variety and excellence of programs that Americans have purchased 40,800,000 radio sets — over one-half of all the radios in the entire world."

In summarizing the radio industry, its past, its present and its future, Mr. MacKay stated that the industry rests upon "one simple, almost whimsical foundation: the ability of the broadcaster to furnish programs people want to hear."

Following his talk, Mr. MacKay answered questions and explained various phases of the radio industry in particular.

In addition to Mr. MacKay, who was the guest of Rotarian Phil Clarke; Walter Charmbury, of New York City; Bill Hill, student guest of the club; Bert Lapp, of Pahokee, and Thurmond Knight were guests.

The musical program included two piano selections played by Mrs. Eleanor Hearn Currier.

Announcement was made of a fathers and sons banquet to be held tonight at the Community Church and sponsored by the Rotary Club.

"Love In Bloom" Is Annual Play

The annual ninth grade play of the Belle Glade junior high school will be presented Friday, May 19, at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium, it was announced this week. A one act play entitled "Love In Bloom" will be presented by a student cast and a short variety program will be featured in conjunction with the play. Mrs. Lora Watson, new teacher at the school and well trained in dramatic arts, has charge of the production. Student parts for the cast have not been named as yet.

$500,000 Is Assured For FSA Project In Town Belle Glade

Representative States That Construction Will Be Started Soon

John Beecher, official representative of the Farm Security Administration, told members of the Belle Glade Community Center committee Monday night that the federal government's $500,000 housing projects in this area had been definitely assured and that construction would begin soon.

Investigating the need for a children's nursery in connection with white, migratory labor camp, Mr. Beecher told the committee he will requisition the F.S.A. headquarters to provide a building and equipment for use as a nursery. He will present the request together with favorable recommendations, it was stated.

The white camp will be located west of the railroad tracks near the packing house section, it has been decided. The continuance of the nursery project, begun this year by civic-minded members of the community, will make the project more available to the packing house workers, it was brought out.

Ralph Freeman, manager of the nursery, reported that 100 per cent collections had been made from all local pledges and contributors. The outstanding bills have all been met, he said.

Miss Alicia Fisher, active head of the nursery, reported that as many as 30 children had been cared for by the nursery with the numbers varying at all times More than 50 children have been enrolled on the accepted list.

Frank L. Franz, chairman of the finance committee, announced that a benefit turkey supper will be held Monday night, May 15, at the Community Church. Ladies of the nursery committee are making plans to serve the supper with all proceeds of the affair to go directly into the nursery fund. Tickets are already on sale for the supper. Admission charges are only 50c for adults and 25c for children. Supper will be served from 7 to 9 o'clock, p. m.

The last benefit supper held by the committee was adjudged a success with a total of $53 being realized from the sale of tickets and flowers.

Breeding Ground Provided In Lake By Proposed Law

Several Other Bills Passed By Palm Beach Solons

The State House of Representatives Tuesday passed an important bill introduced by Representatives Herbert D. Beck and Russell Morrow and establishing breeding ground in the southeastern portion of Lake Okeechobee for black bass, crappie, and bream.

The measure, if approved by the Senate, will prohibit the commercial seining of fish in that area and protect the region as a sportsman's ground.

Other measures introduced by the Palm Beach county representation and passed by the House at Tuesday's session includes Bill 489 which prohibits the capture or killing of alligators in Palm Beach county; Bill 851 which regulates fishing in the Loxahatchee River; Bil 850 which prohibits the catching of silver mullet in salt waters of Palm Beach county; Bill 817 which authorizes the cancellation of taxes against airport property in Palm Beach county and makes are area exempt from future taxes of this district by the Lake Worth Drainage District; Bill 848, relative to the sale of bonds and reinvestment of money by the State Board of Administration for Palm Beach county; Bill 852 permitting the payment by the Board of Administration of Dixie Highway of time warrant funds to the general road and bridge fund; and Bill 268 which authorizes the establishment of junior colleges in Palm Beach county.

All Rotary members are bringing their sons or an "adopted" boy to the affair. All members who have no children will bring two boys as guests.

Harris Quits Post As Head Building, Street Committee

Council Meets Wedneday Discuss Many Matters; New Hall Accepted

Commissioner R.K. Harris tendered his resignation as street and public buildings department chairman of the Belle Glade town council at the regular Wednesday night session of the commission.

Asserting that he had continuously attempted to serve the commission in this capacity as best he could, he presented his resignation because of alleged criticism against his department. He will continue to serve as a member of the council.

A recommendation by Commissioner R. K. Harris to pay $500 as part payment of a note overdue to Powers & Archibald, construction firms engaged in the $50,000 waterworks enlargement program, was accepted by the council.

A request from the district supervisor of the WPA asking the council to make preliminary preparations to resume work on the municipal park was read by the clerk and discussed at length by the council. Town attorney Kenyon was asked to resume his negotiations in an effort to sell the public park bonds in the amount of $10,000 voted for and approved at a recent freeholders election He told the council that efforts so far had been to no avail mainly because bonds to be sold were in $100 denominations instead of the more popular $1,000 units. Commissioner Harris expressed disapproval of the sale of any and all bonds until outstanding obligations of the town had been met.

An assignment of $465.45, full amount of the final payment on the new town hall, was made to the Atlantic National Bank of West Palm Beach at the request of architect William Manly King who will assume interest obligations of the note.

A request by C. A. Bailey, Pahokee realtor, asking the town to accept only one-third of the original negro subdivision as proposed, was turned down. Mr. Bailey contended that municipal taxes would be too high on the entire plot and asked to have only a section of the original area accepted at this time. The area requested to be accepted under the negro development ordinance was the South one-third of Tract 29.

L. J. Warren, local laundry owner, presented objections to the inequality of occupational licenses for laundry and dry cleaning establishments and agencies in Belle Glade. Commissioner Harris made a motion that all laundry and dry cleaning firms be required to pay the same occupational fee but the matter was referred to the town attorney because of possible conflict with an established ordinance.

Commissioner A. E. Kirchman, at the request of waterworks superintendent Frank Kelly, offered a motion that the town purchase a carload of alum to be used at the water plant. His request also stated that the purchase be made now so as to take advantage of the cheaper truck hauling. The motion was accepted with the provision that the best terms possible be arranged for in the purchase.

Commissioner Harris asked the council to approve a motion providing that all members of the volunteer fire department present requests to Fire Marshal L. E. Will instead of to individual members of the council. The motion was approved with the comment it will result in greater efficiency and co-ordination of action.

A representative of the Southern Bell Telephone Company asked councilmen to consider arrangements for the installation of telephone services in the new town hall as soon as possible so as to allow the telephone company to secure necessary supplies at once. The council decided to defer the matter until a later meeting.

An objection of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce to any action in beautifying the banks of the Hillsborough canal was withdrawn in a letter to the council from J. F. Scullen, president of the group.

A resolution, accepting the official final inspection of the new town hall by members of the council, PWA officials, and the contractor and architect, was adopted. All change orders plans and specifications were included in the acceptance.

A resolution introduced by Commissioner Bratley and approving action by the council making arrangements with the State to lay pipe-lines along State roads was passed.

An ordinance, approving the borrowing of $827.66 to meet current obligations of the town in connection with the new town hall, was passed with provisions of the note extending the time to 90 days at legal rate of interest. The cost of a bronze identification plate, to be placed in front of the new town hall, was included in the loan.

Survey Shows More Cattle Will Be Raised In Glades

Three Farmers Planning To Fatten Herds On Muck Grasses

Several large herds of cattle will be fattened on Everglades muck soil next fall. This significant statement is the result of a survey made by this newspaper to ascertain just how far local farmers will go in rounding out an intelligent program of diversification next season.

At least three farmers, owning large tracts of Everglades land, will definitely commence steer fattening programs next fall with several more planning to do likewise if personal business arrangements can be made. From an observer's viewpoint, it now looks as if the cattle industry of the Glades has been assured and diversification, long talked about, will finally be realized.

Information supplied this publication by one prominent farmer in the Glades, who is definitely planning to fatten an estimated 350 head of steers on a 250-acre plot a short distance east of the Experiment Station, indicates that feeding will begin in September or October and continue over a 120-day period. Most of the feed to be used will be grown on the same plot, it was stated. The land is now under water control having been farmed for the past four years. It is also ditched and mowed with a crop of beans now planted in the area. Eight separate sections, each fenced in by three strands of barbed wire, will be maintained. Soy beans, locally grown, purchased corn and cottonseed meal and molasses will make up the extra-feed for the herd while Napier grass, Para grass, an acre of Carib grass, Dallis grass, Vasey grass and Rescue grass will be grown for pasturage forage.

Other feeding operations, as discussed with members of the staff of the Experiment Station, disclose that molasses at the rate of 5.5 pounds per day with an equal amount of ground snapped corn will be fed each head with soy beans and cotton seed meal, with a 2-1 ratio respectively, will make up the balance of the non-pasture feed. The molasses feed portion will begin at two pounds per head per day, gradually increasing to the full allotment of 5.5 pounds per head per day.

According to the advice given, 10 acres of soy beans will be grown with 25 bushels to the acre anticipated. The whole or ground feed grown on the plot will be sufficient for 550 animals days per acre, it was found. On the pasture plots, it is figured that a total of one and one-half head per acre will be successfully maintained.

Approximately 21 tons of cottonseed meal will be purchased to round out the feeding program, one pound per day per head being the ratio. Approximately two pounds of soy beans will be alloted each head per day.

A large feed and water pen is to be constructed on the plot and fence post, 1 rod apart, will be installed to fence in the eight enclosures. Heavy pilings for corner posts will be set at every 25-rod interval, it was decided.

The gradual trend toward diversification in the Everglades was first marked by the introduction of 250 head of Florida range steers into the mucklands by Roscoe Braddock last fall. His was the first large-scale commercial cattle-fattening venture in this area for many years.

Bridge Work Slow When Material Is Delayed At Chicago

The steel pilings for the new highway bridge over the Hillsborough canal at Main Street, Belle Glade, will be competely driven in about two more weeks, it was announced this week. Pile-driving work was delayed two weeks because of delay in receiving a shipment of steel from the factory at Chicago. Work is now progressing at the regular rate.

Contractors and engineers stated that the bridge will probably be completed on schedule, from Septmeber 1st to 15th. Concrete has already been poured in a number of ground pilings and one complete concrete supporting column has been laid on the south side of the canal bank.

The temporary wooden false bridge has been built to one side to allow the steam pile driver to drive pilings in a wide angle where the bridge will swing to one side when pivoted to allow canal craft to pass.

Belle Glade Rotes Win Golf Match From Pahokee

Belle Glade's Rotary club won the annual Everglades golf tournament 1 up over a team of Pahokee Rotarians last Thursday at the Fort Mayaca course. Members of the winning team included Arthur Wells, Lou Betzner, Dick Bowman, "Doc" VanLandingham and Lake Jones. A trophy will be presented to the Belle Glade club next week it was announced. The winners are entitled to keep the trophy until next year's tournament when it will either be retained or turned over to the Pahokee club.

Bill Enables Town To Sell Its Land

The State House of Representatives Wednesday received a bill from Representatives Russell O. Morrow and Herbert D. Beck of Palm Beach county authorizing the town of Belle Glade to lease or sell land now owned or hereafter acquired to the Board of Public Instruction for school purposes. The bill carries a referendum clause.

Main purpose of the bill would be to allow citizens of Belle Glade to erect a municipal building, as approved in a recent freeholders bond election in the amount of $25,000, and then lease or sell the building to the school board for use as a high school.

NEGROES ARE HELD

Cody Neal and Dewey Neal, both negroes, were bound over to the County criminal court under bonds of $1000 each after Justice of Peace G. A. Hubbell found both guilty on charges of assault with intent to kill.

Willie Humphries, negro, brought charges against the pair Tuesday night at the Town Hall after an alleged altercation and knife cutting in the negro section Sunday night.

640 Acres Near Hobe Sound To Be Farmed By Glades Growers

Two Everglades planters, Arthur Wells, mayor of Belle Glade, and W. S. Krauss of South Bay, have purchased 640 acres of prospective farm land west of Hobe Sound, are awaiting aid from the county before proceeding with development.

Some dragline work is necessary before the operators can get at their holdings; the county clerk, J. R. Pomeroy said this morning, is negotiating with Louis Weiman to secure use of his equipment for immediately necessary work in this area.

Wells and Krauss plan to ship from Hobe Sound, may build a packing house if sufficient volume can be developed.—Stuart News.

A SALES TAX?

The legislature is in the fifth week of the session and no revenue bills of import have been passed. One branch of the legislature voted to abolish the gross sales tax—thus taking a couple of million from schools. What are they going to do to replace this money? Florida schools must be operated full nine-months terms in the future. And money must be forthcoming with which to operate them.

The racing row has had the senate tied up for weeks. Senator Graham's investigation has provided plenty of copy for the front pages but nothing much has come of the whole thing. Racing will go on just like it has in the past. Days and days of time spent with nothing accomplished. With schools needing finance in years to come the senate has been tied up with the investigation with no chance to get down to real business.

From here on the shore of Lake Okeechobee—far removed from the marble halls of the state capitol—it begins to look like a state-wide sales tax is in the offing. Only a few more days left of the session and no definite provisions made for revenue. It could happen that during the last days of the session the legislators could become desperate and rush through as last minute legislation a sales tax. And, we wouldn't be the least bit surprised if this is what happens. This newspaper is not in favor of a sales tax for added revenue. It would favor a sales tax if and when other taxes are removed.

STRIPES ABOLISHED

"Unsightly stripes" on Florida convicts are soon to become a thing of the past. The State Cabinet in session Tuesday made the decision after Agriculture Secretary Nathan Mayo, head of the prison system, made the recommendation that the stripes be abolished. We extend congratulations to Mr. Mayo and other members of the cabinet for their move.

In the future grey uniforms with a single black stripe on the pants leg and sleeve will be issued to state convicts. That is, they will be issued as their old black and white garb wears out. These uniforms are manufactured by the thousands and, no doubt, there is a big supply of the "unsightly stripes" on hand, but Florida convicts should all have new grey uniforms before the passing of another year.

Lawbreakers, who are incarcerated to pay their debt to society, should not be coddled. We grant that part of the argument. But, for some reason or other we have always thought the "unsightly stripes" should be abolished. In this day and age the aim of a prison system is to rehabilitate men—not to break their morale and place them in embarrassing positions. And, certainly, garbing a human in stripes did nothing toward making him a better man. It was an excellent move on the part of the state cabinet.

Await Arrival Of New Water Tank

Contractors for the Powers and Archibald Construction firm are awaiting arrival of the steel water tank and support to be erected on the concrete foundation already laid at the public park site. Arrival of the 75,000-gallon tank will enable workmen to complete the $50,000 waterworks extension program begun last fall. Refinements to and enlargement of the treating plant was completed several weeks ago and the pipe line extension is rapidly nearing completion.

State Prison Farm No. 2 will not connect with the city water at present, it was learned this week. No provision will be made in the present waterworks extension program for this connection. It was originally planned that the State farm would connect with the city water mains at the town limits near the airport and that the State would construct, at their expense, a connecting line to the farm.

CREECH IS SPEAKER

Bob Creech, Belle Glade farmer and developer, told members of the Lions Club of West Palm Beach last Friday that schools, cattle and sugar cane are the main essentials to the further development and welfare of the Everglades.

RESELLS TOWN HALL

N. D. Lloyd, Belle Glade property owner, purchased from C. B. Rawls Saturday, Belle Glade's old town hall. Purchase price was announced as $250. The building was formerly sold at auction to Mr. Rawls for $205. Proceeds of that sale went to the town.

Now that the baseball season is on folks in the Lake Region will help out on the peanut surplus.

"SITTING IN WITH THE LAWMAKERS"

By Gilbert D. Leach
Florida News Service

Told you last week we intended to settle some questions up here pronto and get down to the real serious business of fixing the State affairs for another two years.

Well, we settled several exasperating things that arouse the ire of a few folks here and there. Then we gave a lot of time to let some of the big boys air their grievances. They've got a lot of high priced gab that simply has to be let loose or the boys back home wouldn't think of employin' them again.

Now you take this racing investigation for instance. I haven't a doubt that Senator Graham had and still has a legitimate basis for both investigation and bias. But for a horseman Senator Graham exhibited a sad lack of close acquaintance with jockeys. They could have told him a long time before the race that other folk had already anticipated what he intended to do and if he didn't change his tactics he couldn't even "show" on the board. Taking it bye and large the Senator was lucky they didn't impeach him on some charge or other.

You folks back home may look at this thing different from the way I see it but you must remember you're there and I'm here. I say this so-called "investigation" and "heating" gave the boys a chance to catch up with what the boy or girl in your family would designate as "home work." All the time this committee was investigating the racing situation, there were more than two dozen Senators out in other committee meetings disposing of bills numbered from A to Izzard. It was a Godsend to them. And that's why they're so nearly caught up with their schedule and why bills are coming out as fast as they are, or in some instances, getting their necks wrung in committee hearings.

I meant to write about "Lobbies" this week because they are an awfully important feature of this and every other meeting of any lawmaking body, but there just won't be space or time. I do hope, however, to write one week offering on that subject.

Here we are starting on the second lap of the two-month race and several of the horses have fallen out. Right now we ought to feel confident in saying that the store tax is going to be off. That half of one per cent has been more bother than it was worth especially to the storekeepers and they'll sigh a big sigh of relief to see it gone. The only tax that has been offered to take its place is one by Cooley and Robinson to tax cigarettes "at the source" and raise approximately the same amount of money. Personally, I don't see any other way now for the store tax to be ousted except that cigarette tax. And none of us will miss the extra couple of cents a pack costs for there isn't a cigarette smoker who reads this that would wait until morning for the chain stores to open so he could get two for a quarter instead of paying 15 cents straight at the corner drug store.

Like we told you two weeks ago folks are going to have to pay their taxes. So you can expect them to begin right now to look into their assessments and see whether they're being soaked or treated like their neighbors. Tax assessors in the various counties are going to be consulted as never before. They wrangled all over the House about this coddling of the delinquent taxpayer and the best that could be mustered in his favor was a slight chance of slipping something by later in the session. And Clay Lewis tried to make it take four-fifths of the Legislature to do even that. Boy! They're fixing to collect taxes from here on out.

Now for some random shots: Milk Board milk is still a little sour (blue-john, as it were); slots have as many lives as a cat and will need them all, maybe more; gas tax has brought a lot of folks up here who didn't find anything to advocate or oppose when they got here; plumbers and barbers and beauticians and employment agency folks and a lot of others have been here looking for "boogers" but only a few little half-grown spooks could be unearthed; there are a lot of two-bit bills that nobody but the one who asked the member to introduce them understood or expected to see become law; hundreds of people bought Memorial flags from girls here and never knew what they meant; committees are choking off a lot of stuff that would keep the legislature here for a couple of years.

Did you see that bill our fellow craftsman Ayers of Gilchrist, and Harris of Alachua, put into the House? If school teachers ought to keep on being paid after they quit teaching, says Ayers, why shouldn't farmers keep on being paid after they quit farming? And especially as the farmers some years not only get docked on their pay but don't get any pay at all. So Mr. Ayers says let's give the farmers all we can up to $50 a month if they've farmed diligently on Florida clay or sand for a quarter of a century, whether consecutively or by spasms.

Watch this bill. If it becomes law nearly all of us can get in on it for most editors in Florida farm on the side and if they raise a couple of rutabagas each season the net profit ought to be more than they make in their shops and that entitles them to the retirement pay. Of course, it may not pass. The farmers have no lobby.

It's interesting to watch the three entrances to the office of Governor Cone. The Governor said he was not going to stick his nose into the legislature's business and as far as I have seen, he hasn't. But that doesn't keep folks who get hot and bothered about how things are going for or against them coming downstairs and consulting "Uncle Fred" about it. Sometimes the corridor is as quiet as the Sunday school room of a Baptist church Saturday morning and again it teems with humanity and the babbling is almost as buzz-zzzzing as that in the lobby on floor above. You can tell by that whether the Governor is in.

There's a liquor lobby here all the time but up to now all its troubles have been little ones. The drug stores got upset last week about the proposal to make them serve their hot dogs in a separate room, but that's one of the bills that can be put out without a general alarm. There is less "freak stuff" in this session than I ever saw either in Florida, California, Kentucky, Indiana, Georgia or Alabama sitting legislatures I have "sat in" upon.

Next week may develop nothing but "heavy stuff" which can be told in a few important words. Then I can digress and tell you about the lobbies and maybe a few words about that interesting subject, the attaches. Until then, adieu!

New Town Hall To Be Dedicated Soon

Belle Glade's new town hall passed official inspection last Thursday morning when A. D. Newkirk, traveling engineer for the Public Works Administration, made a final inspection of the hall and connecting jail in company with members of the town council, William Manly King, architect, and Contractor Don Hillier.

The building was formally accepted by the council Wednesday and the fire department moved into their adjoining quarters last Sunday after the warning siren and equipment had been installed by members of the volunteer department. No definite date has been set for moving into the building, but plans are being made for dedication exercises in the near future.

The town hall and jail project represents an investment of $25,000, 45 per cent of which was a PWA grant and the balance was loaned by the PWA on the security of bonds issued by the town.
